

First Coast Collaborative Law

Serving the Counties of Clay, Duval & Nassau

ABOUT US

First Coast Collaborative Family Law, Inc. is a North-East Florida group of dedicated professionals who believe that there is a more cost effective approach to dissolution through education of the public about the benefits of a family focused alternative to contested divorce.

Collaborative professionals work with both parties to achieve mutually agreed upon parenting plans, child support and alimony arrangements, and the equitable distribution of the marital estate, all without protracted litigation.

Collaborative Benefits

- Less Stress
- Potential cost savings
- Faster resolution
- No court proceedings
- Learned communication skills

Who We Are

- Attorneys
- Mental Health Professionals
- Financial Planners
- Mediators

News from 1st Coast Collaborative Family Law, Inc.

Pictured above Left to Right: Nicole K. Habl, Esq., Prof. Susan Daicoff, Nick Alexander, Esq. Michelle Ash, CDFA and Ross McDonough, LCSW, CAP at the September 2009 Collaborative Training.

Meet our Members at: www.thecollaborativegroup.com

Why Should Your Clients Choose the Collaborative Process?

To preserve family relationships is a simple answer to the question of "Why". According to clients who have engaged in the collaborative process, they have said the following:

- "I would recommend the collaborative process for anyone that wants to maintain a loving environment for their children. You can get divorced, but your kids can still have a family".
- "Through the collaborative process we learned to work together in ways that will continue to benefit us and our children and with the help of the financial expert, we even saved money".
- "The collaborative process gave me the opportunity to control my own destiny".
- "My children were not forgotten in the divorce. This process insured they had a voice".
- "The partnership between the legal, financial and mental health professionals worked wonderfully for our entire Family".

